

Facebook's and Google's 'favors' for the Obama campaign constituted a felony violation of federal law

By Hans A. von Spakovsky |

Lawmakers call for hearings on Facebook data breach

Wall Street Journal columnist Andy Kessler on the revelations that over 50 million user profiles were harvested by a data analysis firm employed by President Trump's 2016 campaign.

Controversy continues to swirl around how the consulting firm Cambridge Analytica obtained personal data from over 50 million Facebook users without their knowledge and used it to target ads